Such a disclaimer from a Republican journal is desirable from the fact that the people of the free States believe the truth of Mr. Taylor a statements. We willsay, from our personal knowledge of Mr. Taylor's situation, that we do not believe the outrages are in his case traceable to sectional or political animosity. What private gries may have wrought this mischief, we know not; but we do know that be had purchased forbearance from partisan persecution. Like many other Republicans in the South, he wagged his tail in the presence of the bloodhounds, and muzzled them with that flag of truce. There is not much to be said in regard to the wool market here in Wheeling and vicinity. The wool in this region has so nearly all been marketed that scarcely enough remains in the haads of growers to excite an interest in quotations. Henry K. We have no desire to combat any statement of fact contained in the Register's article above, but at the same time we cannot ignore the letter from Judge Mc-Whorter, of Greenbrier, (who is well known for his Republicanism,) not only as to the facts in Taylor's case but as to the as to the facts in Taylor's case but as to the general fact that Republicans in that part of the State are not now at least subjected to persecution for their opinions. No doubt they are not held in high esteem by some, perhaps many, of the Bourbons, bu all such feelings are in the nature of a private sentiment, and must be operated upon by time, just as the frigidity of winor secret persecution. As we said the other day, there are nearly 43,000 Republicans in West Virginia, or, in exact figures, (Hayes' vote) there are 42,693 of them, of whom 12,185 live in the Third Should prices below market rates be attempted. them, of whom 12,185 live in the Third District, and of these 810 in Greenbrier county. Until the allegations of Mr. Taylor are clearly proven to be unfounded, and due to other than political and sectional feeling, the editor of the Monree County Register will be the last man to enter a plea of extenuation for that sentiment in this connection—or become its apologist. We do hear, however, of instances where more or less numerous orders have been given to buy considerable amounts at low prices, and, to say the least, there are some little evidences of a movement to artificially depress the market as a step toward having the same closed on terms satisfactory to the would-be buyers. Dealers maintain a decidedly firm position, while the furnace companies refuse to listen to offers at a great deal less than what have ruled as top prices with them during the fall. The "cheap iron" must then, in all probability, come from strictly speculative holders. But where the extensive amounts talked of, as thus held, are, seems to prove a conundrum to buyers.
